

JOURNAL OF COLLEGE OF WORLD ENGLISHES

Volume 22

2 0 1 8

---

Table of Contents

	page
Articles
A Teaching Concept for "The glass was broken": Ergative and Passive	Naoshi Nakagawa 1
On the Historical Development of Infinitival Clauses as Subjects	Yosuke Matsumoto 17
The Relevance of ELF for Japanese Higher Education: As Seen through Practitioner Observations	James D'Angelo 29
Research Note
The Learning Support Wing: The Advantages of an Island of English in a Japanese University	Richard Morrison 45
Translations
Harold Pinter, The Dwarfs: A Novel (3)	Makoto Hosokawa 55
Translation into Japanese The Punch &amp; Judy Show: History, Tradition and Meaning by Robert Leach, Chapter 1-4.	Yoriko Iwata 1
Teaching and Curriculum Issues
Employment Models of the UK and Japan: A Comparative Analysis	Matthew Bowden 95
Whoever Tells The Best Story Wins	Sophie Muller 99

---

SCHOOL OF WORLD ENGLISHES
OF
CHUKYO UNIVERSITY